

WORKING TO SAVE MRS. VALENTINA

Public Sentiment in New Jersey Is Aroused and a Strong Appeal Will Be Made to the Board of Pardons.

WOMAN IS AS COMPOSED AS WHEN SHE FACED DEATH.

Efforts Will Be Made to Show that the Condemned Woman Is Suffering from Emotional Insanity.

"I am still in the hands of God and the law," said Anna Valentina to-day, as she looked through the bars of her cell in the Hackensack Jail.

This woman who was to have been hanged by the neck until she was dead at 10 o'clock this morning, but whose life was saved by a reprieve of twenty-one days granted by Acting Gov. Wakelee, of New Jersey, was as strange and as quiet and composed to-day as she was when death seemed certain. Such is the movement to save this woman from the hangman's noose that many persons think the Board of Pardons will commute her sentence to life imprisonment.
An attempt will also be made to show that when the woman committed the crime for which she has been condemned to die she was suffering from emotional insanity.

It will be asserted that her former medical examination was not satisfactory because it was not conducted by an Italian speaking physician. Mrs.
Longstreet, who has been with her constantly since her conviction, is willing to testify that the woman suffers terrible physical agony at times and then is not responsible for her acts.

Public Sentiment Aroused.
Sentiment in Hackensack revolts at the thought of the execution and tremendous pressure will be brought to bear upon the authorities to save the community from the stigma.

The committee of prominent persons seeking to save the woman from death is using every means possible to influence the officers in whose hands rest her fate. On this committee are Mrs.
R. M. Hart, Mrs. W. W. Holly, Mrs.
David Vroom, Mrs. E. Dougherty, the Rev. C. R. Knebler, the Rev. E. T.
Sanford and the Rev. John Lambert.

Over in Lodi, where the Valentina woman and her victim lived, the man who was the cause of all the trouble and who left when the trial began, has come back into the house which Anna Valentina helped him to build and in which she murdered Rosa Salza.

Woman's Husband in Jail Too.
It is a strange coincidence that the murdered woman's husband is a prisoner in the same jail with Anna Valentina, having been arrested for failure to support his children.

Anna Valentina received the news that her life was to be spared her twenty-one days at least, and that there was a chance that she would not have to die on the scaffold in the same calm way that she received the news that she was to hang. The news of the reprieve was brought to her by Father Lambert. When the priest called she NIECE OF RICHARD CROKER, WHO BECOMES A BARON'S BRIDE.

was not locked in the cell, being permitted the freedom of the corridor into which her cell door opened.

"Do not hope too much," Father Lambert warned her. "You will not die now, but unless the hand of fate is stayed you will forfeit your life on July 6."

"I am in the hands of God and the law," said the woman, with strange docility. Then she knelt while the priest prayed with her.
"I have tried not to give her too much encouragement," said Father Lambert, as he turned from the prison.
"I feel that there is a chance for her, but I do not want her to think much on that side."

Dogs as Letter Carriers.
(From the Detroit News-Tribune.) During the summer months the postmen of certain districts in Belgium make their rounds on bicycles, but when winter comes, as the government will not furnish a horse and cart, these inventive deliverers of mail have trailed large dogs into the service.
Now the postmen of these localities can be seen any winter day, seated in their little carriages made especially for the purpose, passing swiftly along the country roads. All the postmen in these districts have each one or two reliable dogs, which they take with them, and a light dog carriage specially built for their service. In addition to drawing the carriages, the dogs act most reliably as guides for the postmen.
When a new postman is appointed, so reliable are the dogs, that no one is sent to indicate his route to him. He simply seats himself in the cart of the postman whose duty he is taking up, and allows the dog, which draws it to go his accustomed round. With hundreds of deliveries to make, the postmen, however careful he is, is liable to make a mistake, but it is found the dogs never forget to call at a house they have been taught to include in their rounds. All the postman has to do is to recollect at what houses he is no longer to make deliveries and to leave them unvisited.

CROKER'S NIECE WEDS A BARON

Daisy Warren Becomes Bride of Arthur Von Hunerbein, a Cousin of the Late Count Waldersee.

Miss Daisy Croker Warren, a niece of Richard Croker and a member of "The Southerners" company at the New York Theatre, was married to-day to Baron Arthur von Hunerbein at Stamford, Conn. The wedding was strictly private, only the immediate relatives of the bride and bridegroom being present.
Miss Warren has been on the stage for only a few months, using the name of Daisy Croker. Despite her marriage she will continue her professional career for the present.

The bridegroom, although of an old and noble German family, does not use his title in this country, being a civil engineer in the employ of the city and stationed in Queens Borough. He is a cousin of the late Count Waldersee, Field Marshal of Germany. He came to this country when a child, was educated here and intends to make his home here, despite the title that is his when on German soil.

Miss Warren is a daughter of Richard Croker's sister. She made her first appearance on the stage in "The Yankee Doodle" early in the season, and joined "The Southerners" when it was produced at the New York Theatre.

LONGEST-LIVED "SIGNERS."

July 4, 1826, the fiftieth anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence, was a joyous occasion in the United States. Two distinguished signers were still alive, John Adams and Thomas Jefferson. Twenty-five years had elapsed since Adams was President and seventeen years since Jefferson led the White House. Both the aged statesmen were very feeble. All day long Adams was sinking rapidly and without pain. His last audible remark is said to have been, "Thomas Jefferson still survives." But such was not the case. Jefferson died at noon on that fourth of July and Adams shortly before sunset.

BOLD ATTEMPT TO WRECK TRAIN

Ties Placed on the Tracks of the Delaware and Hudson Railroad, and Passenger Coaches Run Into Obstruction.

ONEONTA, N. Y., June 14.—A bold attempt was made last night to wreck local passenger train No. 13 on the Delaware & Hudson Railroad.

A quantity of pine ties were piled on the west-bound track near Chaseville Crossing, and the train hit the obstruction while moving at sixty miles an hour.

The pony trucks of the engine were derailed, but the engine kept on without leaving the track, and no one was seriously hurt.

Men Get Better Suits Than Their Imagination Pictures Thursday at 7.75

ATTEND closely and we'll tell you an unromantic story of 460 Men's Spring Suits that were made on the order of a Philadelphia clothier who wired repeatedly to have them shipped to him, but the New Yorker, being a shrewd business man, looked up the credit of the Quaker City dealer. His standing in Bradstreet's wasn't entirely satisfactory, and the Philadelphiaian was asked to send the cash. This blunt request made him mad and he cancelled the order, writing a sharp and not very complimentary letter, which aroused the ire of the Gothamite. On the impulse he sold the suits to our clothing chief so low that we can sell regular 12.00 Suits for 7.75. These suits are made of blue serges, fancy worsteds, black Thibets, black clay worsteds, fancy chevots, light homespun and Scotch tweeds. They are lined throughout with fine mohair serge. This is by no means an ordinary bargain. Will you save 4.25 by buying one of these 12.00 suits at 7.75?
